History

Handleigh Hall was built in 1780 by the architect James Wyatt for the 1st Earl of Sandwich. It is a fine example of Georgian architecture and is one of the most important houses in the county. The house was built on the site of an earlier house which was destroyed by fire in 1700. The house was built in the style of a country house and was designed to be a place where the family could live and entertain guests.
